

Chinese University Uses Facial Recognition for Attendance

A university in China has a new method of checking for absent students. The Communications University of China takes photos of students' faces as they enter class. The photographs are then automatically checked against the school's database to determine which students are absent. Proponents of the attendance system say the technology saves time for both teachers and students. Earlier this year, a Beijing university installed facial recognition at the entrance to female dormitories.

Source: www.englishclub.com

Vocabulary

database - an organized body of information

proponent - a person who supports an idea entrance - a door or gate used for entering a room or building dormitory - a room for several people to sleep in *テキスト全文は受講時に担当講師よりお受け取り下さい。