II. GRAMMAR REVIEW

Topic: You as Subject

The subject is the part of a sentence that indicates what it is about. It is usually a noun or a pronoun. A noun is a word that names a person, place, or thing. A pronoun is a word that takes the place of a noun in a sentence. The common subject pronouns are I, you, he, she, it, we, and they. The pronoun you as a subject is commonly used with the verbs are or were.

Remember:

When locating subject in a question, the subject usually follows the verb or helping verb. You as the subject of a command, order, or suggestion, is usually left out of the sentence and is said to be the understood subject.

1. You are called to work.

(You is the subject; are called is the verb.)

2. Are you sick?

(You is the subject; are is the verb.)

3. (You) Walk the dog.

(You, as the subject, is omitted from the command.)

Exercise 1: Let's try this out!
