

What to Do

A mother thinks that a child at the community recreation center is bullying her child, but the coaches and center staff have never seen it happen.

Cecile is studying English and computer technology at the local community college, and she wants to get work experience that can go on her resume. She can't work full time and go to school, and the part-time jobs she has found are all in food service. She doesn't think they'd be helpful on her resume.

Fatimah recently moved to Tulsa, and she's new to the bus system. She has been waiting at the bus stop, on a busy street, for an hour for a bus that is supposed to come twice an hour. It's getting dark and it looks like it may rain.
